

The Mosques get crowded in Canada

Ramadan's first Friday Prayer has been crowdedly performed in Canada. As there is no enough space in some of the mosques, Friday prayer has been performed in twice or more rounds. The sermons, experienced in these mosques, include information about the Ramadan and virtues of fasting. In the center of the Islamic Society of North America (ISNA), which is located near Toronto, the Friday prayer has also been performed in twice rounds. Moreover, some donations have been collected for Pakistan. As the schools are on summer holiday, Canadians have performed their Friday prayers all together with their family members and celebrated each other on the occasion of Ramadan. The parking lot of the center could not meet the parking needs of the visitors although it has been constructed enough for 500 vehicles under normal conditions. Also the local police has been obliged to coordinate the heavy traffic in the region.
