

'Islamic Creationist Adnan Oktar Launches London Bus Campaign' - New Humanist

New Humanist, the most long-established, atheistic and politically supported magazine of England, published an article titled "Islamic Creationist Adnan Oktar Launches London Bus Campaign" on its web site on the 5th of September, 2011. In the so-called article of the magazine, well-known for its Darwinist articles and editorial stance, it is reported that the bus posters that introduce the Atlas of Creation are ubiquitous in London and it is stated that "Modern Science Demonstrates That God Exists" is written on the poster. New Humanist, the magazine of the atheist organization of which Richard Dawkins is a supporter, continues to regularly follow Mr. Adnan Oktar's anti-evolutionist works and always announces the worldwide effects of Harun Yahya's works in an atmosphere of mourning and fear. In this article, it is noted that the introduction of Mr. Adnan Oktar's book series called the Atlas of Creation is intended with this bus campaign. In addition, this article was also published on many other atheist and Darwinist web sites.

Islamic creationist Adnan Oktar launches London bus campaign

I've just returned from a two-week break this morning, and as I sift through the seemingly endless list of emails, one thing in particular stands out – our old friend, the notorious Turkish creationist Adnan Oktar, AKA Harun Yahya, has launched a London bus advertising campaign.

There's not really a great deal to say about the ads themselves, other than that they say "Modern Science Demonstrates that God Exists", and promote Oktar's ludicrous series of Atlas of Creation books. Over to Richard Dawkins to explain their ludicrousity (which isn't actually a word, but should be.)

For anyone who has seen the ads around London and wondered who the man gazing out from the side of the bus actually is, I recommend reading our 2009 Adnan Oktar exposé, in which we examined the sinister workings of his Turkish creationist organisation / Islamic sex cult.
